

Short Story

Dramatic Reading

108th Interclass Contest - Ada HS 2014

Ada  ICON

Ada High School Interclass Contest

In the spring of 1907, Superintendent C.H. Freeman proposed an academic competition between the senior, junior and sophomore classes of Ada High School. While the competition has changed somewhat over the years, Interclass remains essentially the same competition it was over 100 years ago.

Earlier years saw the competitors vying in areas such as debate and oration. Tonight's contestants will compete in the areas of short story, dramatic reading, essay and poetry. We welcome you to the 108th annual Interclass competition and hope you enjoy it.

Matthew Wilcox
Student Council
Master of Ceremonies

Below - all the contestants

Essay contestants

Jessica Hill, senior

Mackenzie Wills, sophomore

Emmelina Bales, junior

Poetry contestants

Allison Howard, junior

Benjamin Bowers, sophomore

Annabel Pinkney, senior

Short story contestants

Cole Tabor, senior

Sydney Hartford, sophomore

Steven Gray, junior

Dramatic reading contestants

Emily Keckler, senior

Noah Beach, junior

Blake Willeke, sophomore

Seniors with class trophy: Jessica Hill, Annabel Pinkney, Cole Tabor and Emily Keckler