

♥ Gifts
♥ Salad Bar
♥ Bake Sale

LOVE

IS IN THE AIR

Gift Show & Lunch
Feb. 7, 9-2
Community Health Professionals of Ada
1200 S. Main St.

The Icon goes to a party

Photos and story
by Monty Siekerman

Anita Dearth of Ada (right) prepares a wonderful salad buffet with the assistance of Connie Guyton of Ada for the Love is in the Air Craft Show and Lunch Saturday at Community Health Professionals of Ada. Profits from the event assist the organization's hospice care fund. The well-organized event was planned by Deb Curlis, marketing and event coordinator of Community Health Professionals of Ada.

Julie Wolke of Ada is a representative for Silpada, purveyor of .925 sterling silver, the top of the line.

Lynne E. Scott (left) of Alger and Darlene Bowers of Ada had a table at Health Professionals on Saturday. Lynne was selling the six books she has authored and vintage valentines. Darlene's company is named Delightful and Brave. Why? Because her products are handmade with delight and a bit of bravery.

Tiffany Spradlin of McGuffey is an independent presenter for Younique Products, offering unique, all-natural makeup. Tiffany is also an RN, serving Health Professionals as a home health hospice nurse.

Lisha Wilkerson is an independent designer for Organic Owl, maker of personalized lockets and bracelets. Lisha is also an RN and is a home health hospice nurse for Community Health Professionals of Ada.

Stacy Mann's of Ada is an independent distributor for Jeunesse, providing supplies to those wishing to keep a youthful look.

Joyce Barga of Ada holds a stuffed animal that is microwavable or can be put in the freezer. These stuffed critters help patients who need warmth on their hands or toes, for example, or coolness for a tooth ache or headache. She sells stuffed animals to make you feel better when the need arises.